Fluoridation review needed

With the new town council in place, it is hoped that the councillors will review the evidence against fluoridating the water supply and follow the lead of Calgary and Slave Lake in Alberta in removing this highly questionable chemical from the water supply.

Whitecourt would also be following the lead of British Columbia, which is 95% fluoride free. Internationally, all of western Europe has stopped, as has China and Japan and other countries. Leading proponents of fluoridation have switched sides, including in Canada. They have been there and back. Because of its complexity, this is one important issue where only our town leaders can take effective action.

Whitecourt, A History 1975 - 2010

Details the history and development of the town of Whitecourt during the latter half of the 20th century and early 21st century.

The price of oil soared from $2.50 a barrel in 1970 to $44.66 in 1980, resulting in a power struggle between the federal and provincial governments over pricing and royalties that had been increasing in intensity as the price of oil rose. On October 29, 1980, the newly elected federal government announced the National Energy Program (NEP). This program was introduced in the wake of the energy crisis of the 1970s. The aim was to promote oil-sufficiency across Canada and encourage Canadian ownership of the energy industry. Inflation was extremely high and unemployment was rampant across the eastern provinces. Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau's plan was meant to spread the wealth of oil-rich Alberta east to the Maritime provinces. The program was extremely unpopular in Western Canada; Albertans feared it would cripple the province's economy.

Although the NEP was conceived with the best interests of the country in mind, the reaction of the oil companies and the producing provinces was a mixture of outrage and dismay; full of predictions of impending

Whitecourt Council Month in Review

The Oaths of Office Ceremony for the new Whitecourt Town Council took place at 6:00 p.m. on Friday, October 25 in Council Chambers at the Forest Interpretive Centre. The Ceremony was facilitated by MLA George VanderBurg.

Business owners and managers are encouraged to participate in the Training Gap Survey to help identify training gaps within the local business community. Whitecourt, Alberta Works, and Norquest College will use the information to determine the types of training and/or programming that should be offered locally to benefit community businesses and industry. The electronic survey is available online at www.whitecourt.ca and will run until October 30.

Are you a business owner looking to market your company locally? Sponsorship and naming opportunities are available for the Whitecourt Curling Rink. Naming rights, as well as sponsorship of facility amenities (including the lounge, lobby, and locker room areas), are available. For more information contact the Director of Community Services at 780-778-2273.

Whitecourt Town Council has approved the development permit for the construction of a 104-suite hotel located at 4720 49 Avenue. The property is located immediately east of Canadian Tire. Construction is anticipated to start in the spring of 2014.

The annual Remembrance Day Parade will be held on Monday, November 11 at approximately 10:00 a.m. The procession will start at 10:00 a.m. at the Legion Hall, and will proceed to Central School for ceremonies. After the ceremonies the parade will march to the Seniors Circle for a short service and laying of wreaths at the cenotaph.

The annual Christmas Parade, hosted by the Whitecourt & District Chamber of Commerce, is scheduled for Friday, November 29. Join the Town of Whitecourt at 6:45 p.m. at the Town Office for the annual Christmas Tree Light Up in support of the Food Bank, and then take in the floats at the parade which will start at 7:00 p.m.

Journey To Bethlehem 2013
November 16 & 17 and 23 & 24

Journey to Bethlehem is a live Nativity drama held in Fort Assiniboine. It has played every third and fourth weekend in November for the last thirteen years.

Actors dress in period costume, and performances are outside, regardless of the weather. The audience begins in queue at the Catholic church; there is live entertainment, and a chance to sing Christmas carols. In small groups, the audience is guided through several stations depicting daily life at the time of Christ's birth. The performance takes about twenty minutes to walk through, and refreshments are served at the Friendship Centre. Donations are gratefully accepted and are used cover expenses such as prop maintenance and facility rentals. Any proceeds above expenses are traditionally given to the Christian Blind Mission.

This FREE event is an outdoors, so please dress warmly. Guided tours to Bethlehem begin at the Catholic Church and run every 10 minutes between 6:30-8:30 pm. All people involved in the event are volunteers, it is a free event.

World Bank Whistleblower Reveals How The Global Elite Rule The World

By Michael Snyder - from globalresearch.ca

Karen Hudes is a graduate of Yale Law School and she worked in the legal department of the World Bank for more than 20 years. In fact, when she was fired for blowing the whistle on corruption inside the World Bank, she held the position of Senior Counsel.

She was in a unique position to see exactly how the global elite rule the world, and the information that she is now revealing to the public is absolutely stunning. According to Hudes, the elite use a very tight core of financial institutions and mega-corporations to dominate the planet.

The goal is control. They want all of us enslaved to debt, they want all of our governments enslaved to debt, and they want all of our politicians addicted to the huge financial contributions that they funnel into their campaigns. Since the elite also own all of the big media companies, the mainstream media never lets us in on the secret that there is something fundamentally wrong with the way that our system works.

Remember, this is not some "conspiracy theorist" that is saying these things. This is a Yale-educated attorney that worked inside the World Bank for more than two decades. The following summary of her credentials comes directly from her website...

Karen Hudes studied law at Yale Law School and economics at the University of Amsterdam. She worked in the US Export Import Bank of the US from 1980-1985 and in the Legal Department of the World Bank

Public Banks Are Key to Capitalism

By Ellen Brown

Ellen Brown, a lawyer, is the president of the Public Banking Institute and the author, most recently, of "The Public Bank Solution."

To ask whether public banks would interfere with free markets assumes that we have free markets, which we don't. Banking is heavily subsidized and is monopolized by Wall Street, which has effectively "bought" Congress. Banks have been bailed out by the government, when in a free market they would have gone bankrupt. The Federal Reserve blatantly manipulates interest rates in a way that serves Wall Street, lending trillions at near-zero interest and pushing rates so artificially low that local governments have lost billions in interest-rate swaps.

Banking, money and credit are not market goods but are economic infrastructure, just as roads and bridges are physical infrastructure.

State and municipal governments already have public lending programs, which are generally not seen as distortions of the free market. They exist because private banks are not lending in some sectors that need financing. Montana finances first-time ranchers and farmers; Sonoma County has its Energy Independence Program; and San Francisco has half a dozen mortgage lending and small business programs. Globally, public banks lend countercyclically, providing credit when and where other banks won't. This does not crowd out private banks. Germany and Taiwan, which have strong public banking sectors, are among the most competitive banking markets in the world.

One World, Ready or Not

By Dan Parker

There is an old saying that a problem can only be solved at the level it was created at. With that in mind, it could be pointed out that this writer frequently disagrees with the guest columnists in this paper. These writers are included here because they write truthfully about issues of great importance that our mainstream media ignores or misrepresents. As well, varied opinions are a part of any truly free press. That said, in their excellent critiques of our current monetary system, there is often an under appreciation of the difficulties faced by our super-elites at the global level.

On page 6 of this issue, Michael Snyder, with help from former World Bank Senior Counsel Karen Hudes, gives a good summary of the transgressions of the powers behind the scenes that affect our lives so much. They are of course correct in the calls for more transparency and a media that is not held captive by giant corporations.

However, what is often missed is that the western super-elites are not just competing amongst themselves.

Health Solutions, More About Cancer

Written by Verna Ellis, Health Solutions

You have to wonder what cancer statistics would be like if our food supply had not been so affected by markets and money. Clearly, health has to become a prioritized lifestyle goal if we want to have any hope of a positive outcome.

Peanuts, Peanut Butter, and Cancer

The ratio of omega-6 to omega-3 oils is terribly important to health. The worst offenders are safflower oil and peanut oil (with extremely high omega-6 to omega-3 ratios), cottonseed oil, sunflower oil, sesame oil, and corn oil. (p. 51). Peanuts are forbidden. They are not nuts at all; they are legumes – and legumes contain lectins and other antinutrients that can adversely affect your health (p. 126).

The Paleo Diet, Loren Cordain, PhD, Professor in the Health and Science Department at Colorado State University, Wiley, 2002.

Aflatoxin is a mold toxin (p. 5). Aflatoxin has been called one of the most potent carcinogens ever discovered (p. 5). Peanuts often were contaminated with a fungus-produced toxin called aflatoxin (p. 34). Aflatoxin was said to be the most potent chemical carcinogen ever discovered (p. 34). Peanuts and corn are the foods most contaminated with aflatoxin (p. 35). All 29 jars of peanut butter we had purchased in the local groceries were contaminated with levels

The Emperor's Kid's Clothes

During a dinner party, the hosts' two little children entered the dining room totally nude and walked slowly around the table. The parents were so embarrassed that they pretended nothing was happening and kept the conversation going. The guests cooperated and also continued as if nothing extraordinary was happening.

After going all the way around the room, the children left, and there was a moment of silence at the table, during which one child was heard to say, "You see, it is vanishing cream!"

from 1986-2007. She established the Non Governmental Organization Committee of the International Law Section of the American Bar Association and the Committee on Multilateralism and the Accountability of International Organizations of the American Branch of the International Law Association.

Today, Hudes is trying very hard to expose the corrupt financial system that the global elite are using to control the wealth of the world. During an interview with the New American, she discussed how we are willingly allowing this group of elitists to totally dominate the resources of the planet...

A former insider at the World Bank, ex-Senior Counsel Karen Hudes, says the global financial system is dominated by a small group of corrupt, power-hungry figures centered around the privately owned U.S. Federal Reserve. The network has seized control of the media to cover up its crimes, too, she explained. In an interview with The New American, Hudes said that when she tried to blow the whistle on multiple problems at the World Bank, she was fired for her efforts. Now, along with a network of fellow whistleblowers, Hudes is determined to expose and end the corruption. And she is confident of success.

Citing an explosive 2011 Swiss study published in the PLOS ONE journal on the “network of global corporate control,” Hudes pointed out that a small group of entities — mostly financial institutions and especially central banks — exert a massive amount of influence over the international economy from behind the scenes. “What is really going on is that the world’s resources are being dominated by this group,” she explained, adding that the “corrupt power grabbers” have managed to dominate the media as well. “They’re being allowed to do it.”

Previously, I have written about the Swiss study that Hudes mentioned. It was conducted by a team of researchers at the Swiss Federal Institute of Technology in Zurich, Switzerland. They studied the relationships between 37 million companies and investors worldwide, and what they discovered is that there is a “super-entity” of just 147 very tightly knit mega-corporations that controls 40 percent of the entire global economy...

When the team further untangled the web of ownership, it found much of it tracked back to a “super-entity” of 147 even more tightly knit companies – all of their ownership was held by other members of the super-entity – that controlled 40 per cent of the total wealth in the network. “In effect, less than 1 per cent of the companies were able to control 40 per cent of the entire network,” says Glattfelder. Most were financial institutions. The top 20 included Barclays Bank, JPMorgan Chase & Co, and The Goldman Sachs Group.

But the global elite don’t just control these mega-corporations. According to Hudes, they also dominate the unelected, unaccountable organizations that control the finances of virtually every nation on the face of the planet. The World Bank, the IMF and central banks such as the Federal Reserve literally control the creation and the flow of money worldwide.

At the apex of this system is the Bank for International Settlements. It is the central bank of central banks, and there is a video where you can watch Hudes tell Greg Hunter of USAWatchdog.com by googling key words ...

“We don’t have to wait for anybody to fire the Fed or Bank for International Settlements . . . some states have already started to recognize silver and gold, the precious metals, as currency”

Most people have never even heard of the Bank for International Settlements, but it is an extremely important organization. In a previous article, I described how this “central bank of the world” is literally immune to the laws of all national governments...

An immensely powerful international organization that most people have never even heard of secretly controls the money supply of the entire globe. It is called the Bank for International Settlements, and it is the central bank of central banks. It is located in Basel, Switzerland, but it also has branches in Hong Kong and Mexico City. It is essentially an unelected, unaccountable central bank of the world that has complete immunity from taxation and from national laws. Even Wikipedia admits that “it is not accountable to any single national government.” The Bank for International Settlements was used to launder money for the Nazis during World War II, but these days the main purpose of the BIS is to guide and direct the centrally-planned global financial system. Today, 58 global central banks belong to the BIS, and it has far more power over how the U.S. economy (or any other economy for that matter) will perform over the course of the next year than any politician does. Every two months, the central bankers of the world gather in Basel for another "Global Economy Meeting". During those meetings, decisions are made which affect every man, woman and child on the planet, and yet none of us have any say in what goes on. The Bank for International Settlements is an organization that was founded by the global elite and it operates for the benefit of the global elite, and it is intended to be one of the key cornerstones of the emerging one world economic system.

Did you know that the way you sleep could aggravate your back?

For the best sleep position, lie on your side with your thighs drawn up toward your chest and a pillow between your legs. If you sleep on your back, support your knees and neck with pillows.

And sleep on your stomach only if a small pillow cushions your lower abdomen.

This system did not come into being by accident. In fact, the global elite have been developing this system for a very long time. In a previous article entitled "Who Runs The World? Solid Proof That A Core Group Of Wealthy Elitists Is Pulling The Strings", I included a quote from Georgetown University history professor Carroll Quigley from a book that he authored all the way back in 1966 in which he discussed the big plans that the elite had for the Bank for International Settlements...

[T]he powers of financial capitalism had another far-reaching aim, nothing less than to create a world system of financial control in private hands able to dominate the political system of each country and the economy of the world as a whole. This system was to be controlled in a feudalist fashion by the central banks of the world acting in concert, by secret agreements arrived at in frequent private meetings and conferences. The apex of the system was to be the Bank for International Settlements in Basle, Switzerland, a private bank owned and controlled by the world's central banks which were themselves private corporations.

And that is exactly what we have today.

We have a system of "neo-feudalism" in which all of us and our national governments are enslaved to debt. This system is governed by the central banks and by the Bank for International Settlements, and it systematically transfers the wealth of the world out of our hands and into the hands of the global elite.

But most people have no idea that any of this is happening because the global elite also control what we see, hear and think about. Today, there are just six giant media corporations that control more than 90 percent of the news and entertainment that you watch on your television in the United States.

This is the insidious system that Karen Hudes is seeking to expose.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles?
 Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's how it works:
 Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a Sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle.

Awards recognize Albertans who help people with disabilities

Albertans who help people with disabilities be included and participate in meaningful ways within society deserve recognition. That's why the Alberta government was pleased to present the Persons with Developmental Disabilities (PDD) Provincial Community Leadership Awards on October 16, 2013.

I had the privilege to join Frank Oberle, Associate Minister of Services for Persons with Disabilities, to present the Community Citizenship Award to the Whitecourt Wolverines. The Community Citizenship Award recognizes a community member, business or organization that has shown leadership in supporting adults with developmental disabilities to be involved in the community.

Under the leadership of Brent Stark, the Whitecourt Wolverines junior hockey team includes and supports people with developmental disabilities in a variety of ways. Some of the team members work for a local disability service agency, Whitecourt CARE, and the team donates season tickets and offers the use of their bus to individuals with developmental disabilities in the community. Team members have also offered fire safety training and mentored individuals to help them exercise and stay fit.

The Wolverines also created "Loren's Cup" to honour the contributions of Loren Case to their team. Those of you that had the opportunity to know Loren, the Wolverines' #1 fan, knew that he was a valued part of the team. Loren sadly passed away earlier this year but he is fondly remembered by the community.

There were twenty-seven individuals, families, and organizations nominated for five awards this year and all nominees were recognized with certificates, inspiring them to continue doing their good work and attain positive outcomes. The awards are just one of the ways the Alberta government is investing in families and communities to build a better Alberta. For more information, visit www.humanservices.alberta.ca/disability-services/pdd-news.html.

Thank you to all of you who give generously of your time and talent to deliver recreational, social and cultural programs to youth, families and our community's most vulnerable citizens. They are also competing against other super-elites from China, a newly resurgent Russia and an equally imperialist Islamist constituency; amongst others. This international competition takes place where the effective rule of law is generally absent. There are some moves to change this. However, for now, the global situation is close to what the father of cybernetics Norbert Wiener called the rule of ruthlessness.

We are often exposed to the horrors that result when there is a breakdown of law in failed nations, with the mass murders of innocents being common. Justice based law might be a better term here in that the rule of law alone is not enough. Tyrannical laws, or laws that ensure debt slavery like our current system, are no more a sustainable solution to our problems than a land with no laws. Such systems will always eventually become unstable to the point of collapse because people have a built-in drive for justice. No doubt, a higher power has something to do with this.

Rwanda, Bosnia, Sudan and so on are examples of the failure of just law at the national level. The catastrophic human rights abuses that occurred in these countries are national versions of how the global level works. When the mass murder of innocents occurs at the global level, as in a war between nations, it is sometimes given the term collateral damage. However, it is of course the same thing as what is otherwise called genocide or mass murder when the crime happens within a country's border. When a bullet hits a non-combatant it is unlikely that they give much thought if it comes from a fellow national or from someone who lives across the imaginary line that demarcates nations.

It does not take a lot of research or thought to see that the only lasting solution for many of today's most serious issues requires new international structures. Our super-elites are indeed enslaving us in their fight against other super-elites, as indeed other populations are enslaved by their super-elites. To bring about the needed transparency, accountability and free media for the average citizen, it would seem that activists from all sides, whether in China, Russia, the Muslim world, or other competing political structures, would have to work closely together. There are various embryonic groups who are taking this approach.

As the title of a bestseller states: it's one world, ready or not. What form a world government will take is the big question. Will our current hidden dictatorships, mislabeled as democracy, evolve into a world government dictatorship, as the competing super-elites gradually combine, or knock out the competition? Or will activists around the world increasingly co-operate both with competing countries and with those super-elites worldwide who are wise enough to see that a world dictatorship is not the way to go.

A dictatorship, or more accurately an oligarchy, as we have now under our current money system, may seem an easier route in the short term to an effective global rule of law. However, this is a classic case of the old systems phenomena of 'the easy way out, usually leads back in' when dealing with complex issues. The history of dictators and oligarchies would prove this out. The individual citizen is geared to live in as much freedom as possible, and seek as much true justice as possible; and will move that way as surely water flows downhill on this planet. Any solutions imposed that go against this dynamic will be relatively short lived.

So here's to exposing the unbelievably corrupt system we live under, as the guest columnists in the Advisor frequently do. However, an important add-on is the understanding that to change things for the better, focusing on this or that individual or corporation will not work. For the most part, it is bad systems, not bad people or corporations that are the problem. Our super-elites, like the others, are basically slaves to the international rule of ruthlessness, even while they enslave the populations under their control. Global grassroots action, along with the support of the more enlightened super-elites, would seem to be the only sustainable way forward in a world where humanity seems to have exhausted all other options.

Signs That You're Ready to Buy

Six tips that tell you it's time

Figuring out whether you're ready to buy a house -- whether you're a renter or are aiming to move up or size down -- can be a daunting task. But there are signs that will indicate whether you're ready to take the buying plunge. If you are thinking about buying, you're not alone. So are you ready to make the move? You might be if you:

1. Are familiar with the market. If you've been paying attention to how much houses are listed for in the neighborhoods you're eyeing and have a realistic view of how much a house will cost you, you're in good shape.
2. Have the money for a down payment and closing costs. The down payment is a percentage of the value of the property. You can expect to pay between from 2 to 7 percent of the property value. Generally, buyers will receive an estimate of these costs from your lender after you apply for a mortgage.

3. Know how much you can afford. Freddie Mac says that as a general guide, your monthly mortgage payment should be less than or equal to a percentage of your income, usually about a quarter of your gross monthly income. Also, your income, debt and credit history go into determining how much you can borrow.
4. Know what additional expenses will come with owning a home. This includes homeowners insurance, utility bills, maintenance costs -- roofing, plumbing, heating and cooling.
5. Have your credit in good shape and make sure your credit report is accurate. Potential lenders will view your credit history -- how much debt you've accrued, how many accounts you have open, whether your payments are made on time, etc. -- to determine whether they'll give you a loan. You should get a report from each of the three credit reporting companies: Equifax, Experian, and Trans Union.

6. You haven't made any recent major purchases, particularly a vehicle. If you do, you may have a harder time getting a loan -- or it could potentially lower the amount you'll be approved for.

ing financial ruin, which for many became a reality. Between 1980 and 1985, after the establishment of the NEP, the bankruptcy rate in Alberta increased dramatically, despite those years of having the highest prices on record for world oil (see Chapter 12, “The Petroleum Industry”).

The economic vitality of Whitecourt in the early 1980s did not suffer as acutely as many centres in Alberta largely due to the increased activity of the area’s forest industries. Development and expansion by Millar Western, Simpson Timber Company, and Alberta Energy made a tremendous contribution to the economy of Whitecourt. The town continued to grow despite falling oil prices, a worldwide recession, and an interest rate that peaked in excess of 20 percent in 1981.

During the economic downturn reflecting the state of oil prices of the 1990s, exploration for oil and gas virtually stopped. Many oil rigs were dismantled and shipped across the border, as oil exploration had not slowed as significantly in the United States. However, mid-stream oil processing continued. Fortunately, the nearby oil and gas fields—Windfall, Virginia Hills, Carson Creek, Kaybob, and Judy Creek—were already mature and producing gas fields. As a result, the service industries associated with the petroleum sector continued to prosper in Whitecourt, an effect not seen in many other communities during the late 1980s.

The economic health of a community is directly established by an increase in retail businesses and an increase in the value of the building permits granted. Despite the effects of the recession, building projects continued in Whitecourt. Early in 1980, the Whitecourt Hotel was replaced. This hotel had stood on the corner of 50th Avenue and 50th Street, directly across from the train station, since the railway first reached Whitecourt in 1921. The Whitecourt Inn, a modern three-storey hotel that included a five-hundred-seat banquet room, replaced the Whitecourt Hotel (Now know as the Admiral Inn & Suites).

These stories were reproduced from Whitecourt, A History 1975 - 2010, with permission of the Town of Whitecourt. A copy of the book may be purchased at the Whitecourt Public Library, the Forestry Interpretive Centre, the Town Office and the Allan & Jean Millar Centre. Please call (780) 778-2900 for more information. An earlier Whitecourt history book, Sagitawah Saga - The Story of Whitecourt, is available at the public library for reading. It is for sale through the Whitecourt and Area Heritage Society at the Forest Interpretive Centre.

Waiting for health care: still not good enough

(NC) Ten years ago, longer wait times for health care services were a major concern for Canadians. The federal, provincial and territorial governments pledged to do something about it, and billions of dollars later, there have been some improvements. You will wait less time for a hip or knee replacement, for example.

But we still have a long way to go. Although Canada is a top spender when it comes to health care, we wait longer for some types of care than many other high income countries.

Wait to see a family doctor: Canada ranks last out of 10 countries. In 2012, only 47% of our primary care doctors reported they could provide appointments the same or next day.

Wait for elective surgery: Canada ranks last out of 11 countries. In 2010, 25% of Canadians reported that they waited four months or more for elective surgery – or surgery that is non-life -threatening that is subject to choice.

The Health Council of Canada, a national organization that reports on the progress of health care reform across Canada, argues that we need to do better. Reducing wait times is complex, but governments have had some success. They need to continue to try innovative approaches, and to measure and share the results so that others can learn from their experiences. It's a tall order, but with more collaboration, Canadians would not have to wait any longer— for better health, better care, and better value. They expect, and deserve, no less. Remembrance DAY

CEREMONIES

Monday, November 11th

Doors open at Central School, 10:00 a.m.

Parade participants meet at Legion 10:00 a.m.

Lunch & entertainant upstairs at the Legion Hall

Everyone Welcome!! Pass the word around!!

Legoin Hall Lounge will be open downstairs.

The Whitecourt Legion Branch #44, is very proud to be a cornerstone of this community! We honour the past as well as acknowledge the future.

This time of year is dedicated to recognizing the world wide achievements our Canadian Forces have done to keep our country and community safe. Each fall, the Royal Canadian Legion provides Canadians with the opportunity to "Remember" and "Honour" our fallen by conducting the annual Poppy Campaign. By wearing a Poppy, the symbol of Remembrance, Canadians pay tribute to their sacrifices, deeds and accomplishments.

Thank you to all those businesses that are willing to display a wreath, or have a poppy tray on their counters. Money collected through the poppy trays or any donation kindly given will be applied to local veterans and their families in a time of need. We have had many veterans from Whitecourt over the years, and their comfort is of utmost importance to us.

Our local Cadet (Army and Air) units, Scouts and Cubs, Girl Guides and Brownies help the Legion on Poppy Day November 3rd. They will be around the downtown area with poppy trays. This is their opportunity as a group to be part of this event and help recognize "Remembrance Day".

The Whitecourt Legion Branch #44 has been part of this Community for over 85 years! Let's continue to keep our Community strong, vibrant and safe.

They've served our country with courage and honour.

They've left behind loved ones to risk their lives in protecting their country.

They've defended our freedoms and ideals.

They make us proud to be Canadians.

Thanks, veterans, for your brave and selfless service to our nation. We salute you on Remembrance Day.

 Killed or missing in action. Many of those who served were wounded.*

The red remembrance poppy has become a familiar emblem of Remembrance Day due to the poem "In Flanders Fields". These poppies bloomed across some of the worst battlefields of Flanders in World War I, their brilliant red colour an appropriate symbol for the blood spilled in the war.

In the coming days, Canadians will come out in the tens of thousands to share their support and pride for Canadian Veterans. Caring for these Veterans is at the core of what the Legion does. Veterans, whether they have served in the past, or are serving today, have earned the right to be treated with dignity and respect. This is clearly the message Canadians have expressed.

We apologize if we missed anyone on the honour roll. Please contact us with any missing information at 780-778-3949.

Staying safe on the ice

(NC) Canada's passion for the game of hockey is well-known, but nothing is more paramount than the safety of the players on the ice. As players become stronger and faster, it is increasingly important to teach them about how to stay safe, from what equipment to wear to how to play with awareness and courtesy.

Responsibility for safe play on the ice falls to everyone involved – parents, coaches, kids, and referees. Rules and enforcement of the rules, education, awareness, and strong skill development are all key steps to a fun and safe hockey season.
